Scholarship is the most evident goal of each high school student. Only through hard work and diligent study can a student attain this high standard.

Leadership is a quality that comes from assuming responsibility and the ability to handle it.

Character that is honest and trustworthy is developed all through life. In high school an important part of this character is formed.

Service our whole four years are devoted to learning the best ways to serve others and ourselves.

Dedication

We, the seniors of 1964, dedicate the Buckeye to Mrs. Charles McCullough, one of our most dedicated and respected teachers.

She came to our school in 1922 as a high school teacher. After one year she was promoted to High School Principal. She resigned in 1928 and married the basketball coach at Union City Westside. She has two daughters, Mary and Martha, who are both married and have families.

Mrs. McCullough has transmitted her great interest in learning and desire for knowledge to many of her students throughout the years.

Through this dedication, we want to show our appreciation to her for her love and dedication to teaching.

Traveling, needlework, playing bridge, and reading are among her many hobbies. During summer vacations, she has traveled to England, France, and Cape Cod. Her greatest love of all her pastimes, is reading. She has been heard to say on many occasions, "I would like to have the money to buy all the books I would like to own."

MEETING THE CHALLENGE OF CHANGE

The sixties will be a decade of decision for our school, community, county, state, nation, and the world. Our responsibility has been and will continue to be one of guiding and preparing youth for society in a rapidly changing world. Change is the inescapable imperative of our time.

GUIDANCE

The function of the Guidance Department, now in its third year, is to assist students with their personal as well as their vocational needs and wants.

MRS. CORINNE GRAY was our Counselor during the first semester. Many students greatly benefited from her help. She took a maternity leave at the beginning of the second semester, and Mr. Brown assumed the responsibility of the Guidance Department for the remainder of the year.

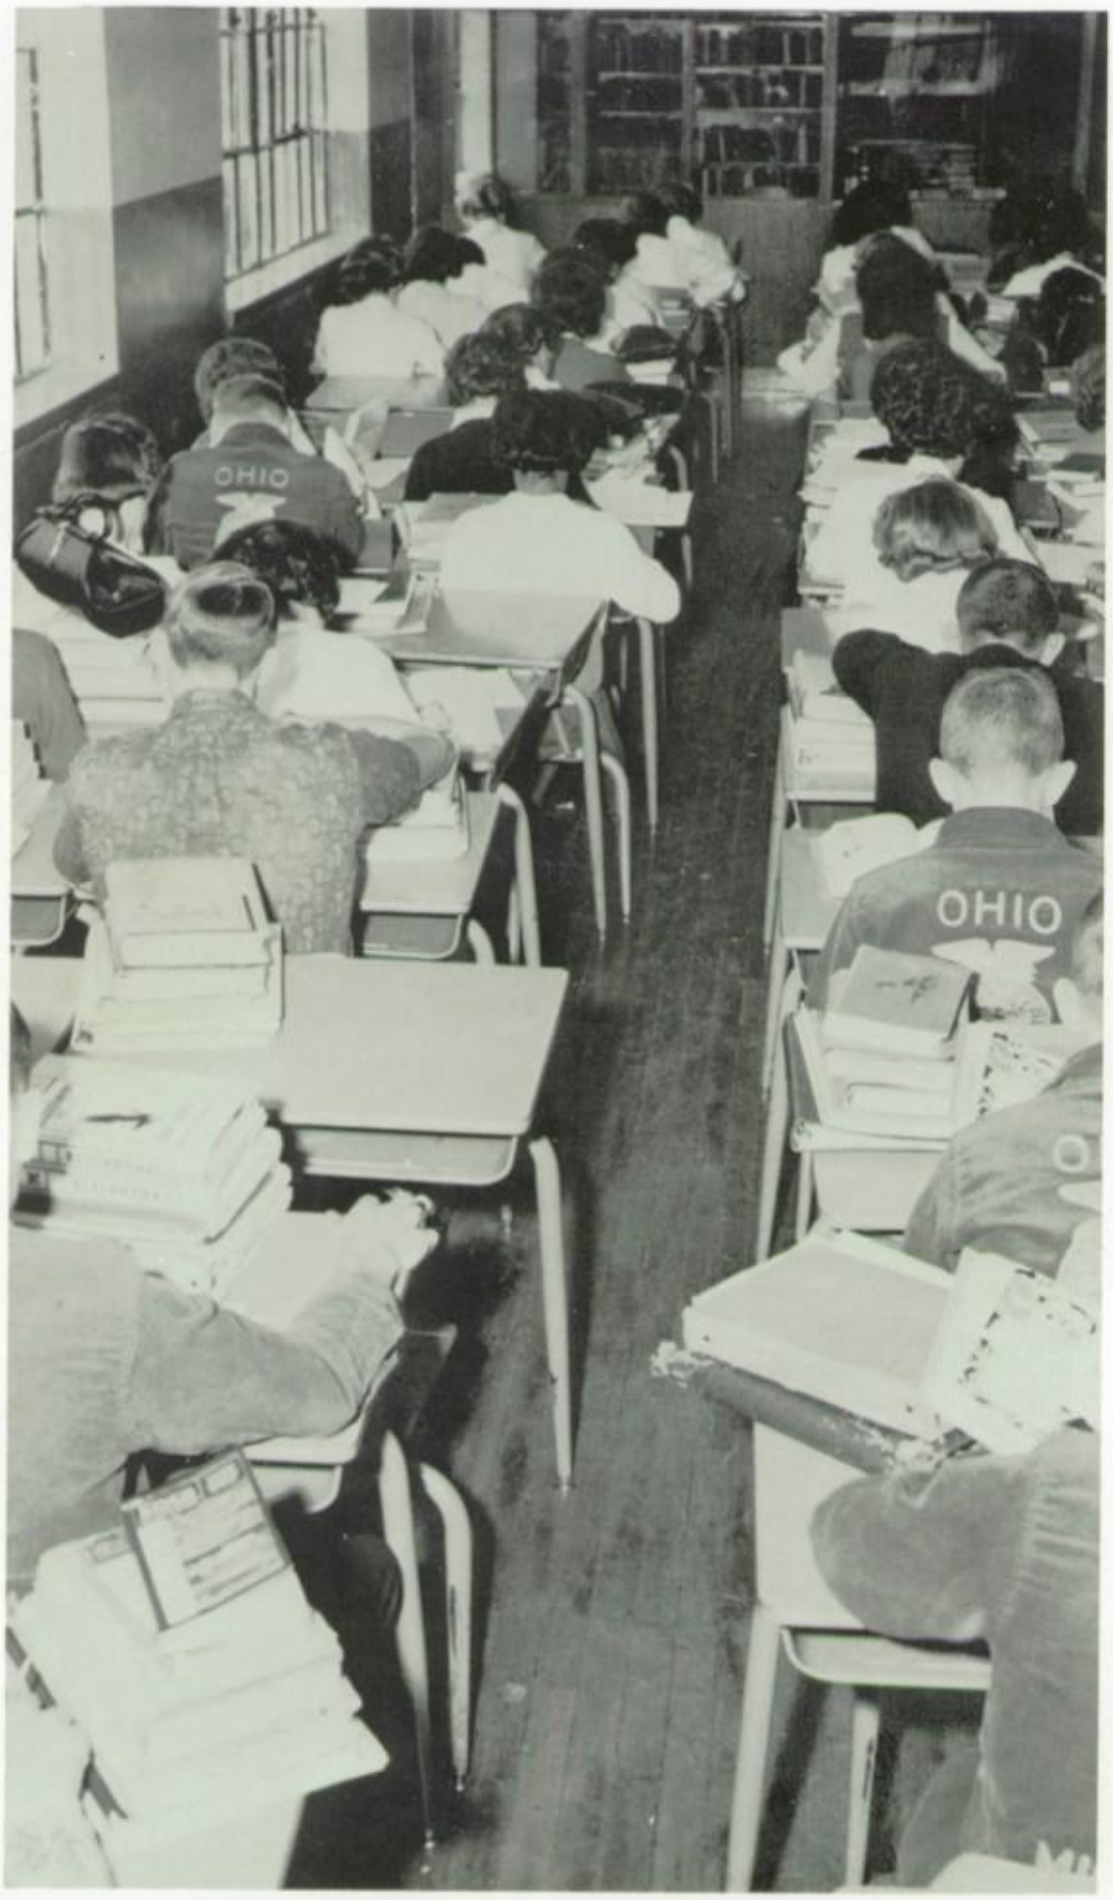
Academic



The study hall symbolizes the growth of scholarship. Here the students study and prepare assignments for their various classes.

These classes are part of the many courses of study offered at Mississinawa, ranging from those in the business department to the science department. Each student can find subjects that develop his interests and talents.

Business

MRS. JOYCE YARBROUGH, B. S.

Mrs. Joyce Yarbrough, one of our part-time teachers, can be found each morning in Bookkeeping and General Business classes. She is a graduate of Butler University and has been in the business department for 10 years. Mrs. Yarbrough is a golf enthusiast and has been the Union City Club Champ for the past two years.

Bookkeeping students learn the language and problems of business and accounting.

Members of the General Business class look over their work. This course gives students a general background for future study of business.

ST. CLAIR MILLS, INC.

Its Objective:

MRS. MILDRED PATRICK, A. B.

Mrs. Patrick, a valuable asset to our business department, has been with us for nine years. Her duties are varied - from working typing students on their "home keys," and dictating shorthand, to running a sound-scriber and teaching the essential principles of the law.

Her best-loved pastime is collecting antiques. These are used to enhance the rustic beauty of her home.

Accuracy and speed are the main goals of typing students. This class is one of the most important for students planning to enter college or the business field.

The Shorthand Class spends the greater part of the second semester in transcription. The students follow fairly closely the practice that prevails in the business office in their pursuit of a business career.

A Future Career

Office Practice class introduces students to preparation for immediate employment in the secretarial field. They receive training in human relations as well as secretarial work.

These members of the Office Practice class are running off the paper on the mimeograph machine.

The Valley Hi-Lites editor is Terry Davis; Joy Eley is in charge of grade news and also is dummy editor; co-editor is Linda Oswalt; mimeograph operator is Patty Kessler; artist is Carol Bowman; high school reporters are Sharon Creager and Connie King; and the business manager is Ruth Siefring.

Two groups of students are served by Business Law; those wishing to equip themselves with a knowledge of law for their personal business use, and those wishing to find a place for themselves in the business world.

Its purpose is to impress students with the increasing need to find a place for themselves in the business world.

MR. MARVIN BEISNER, B. S.

General Science and Physics instructor, Mr. Beisner, is in his first year at Mississinawa. He is fresh from Georgetown College in Kentucky where he received much recognition for his work in the science field. In addition to teaching, he has an enthusiastic interest in sports.

MRS. MARGARET ELLEN OSWALT, B. S.

Students in the Science Department are well acquainted with Mrs. Oswalt, teacher of Chemistry, Biology, and General Science. Her busy schedule also includes Latin I and II classes. Her hobbies of sewing and gardening stem from her interest in Home Economics, which she taught for 4 years in Huntington High School in Brown County, Ohio.

Science students begin their study in this field in General Science. They explore the basic elements of our world and learn the wonders of this planet.

The Modern World

Biology provides a broad background in the study of plants and animals. These students are disecting a crayfish to learn the structure of an anthropoid.

Writing results of experiments is an essential part of the study of Chemistry.

Physics is the science of matter and motion. These students are finding the velocity of air in water.

From Past

MR. ROBERT E. BROWN, B. S., M. A.

In addition to his position as principal, Mr. Robert Brown also teaches two classes in U. S. history and supervises one study hall. The Student Council is also under his supervision.

Mr. Brown enjoys observing many sports such as basketball, baseball, football, and track. Playing tennis and reading are two of his more active hobbies.

MR. VAUGHN F. STOCKSDALE, A. B.

Snow skiing, tennis, and golf are the favorite hobbies of Mr. Vaughn Stocksdale, teacher of democracy.

He has an A. B. from Manchester College in political science, and this is his first year at Mississinawa. He is now actively engaged in his campaign for Representative to the Ohio General Assembly from Darke County.

MR. RALPH O. ROYER, A. B., M. S.

One of the most important members of our faculty and administration is Mr. Ralph Royer, assistant principal. He has taught in this system for 38 years.

Each morning he performs his duties as assist. principal by writing excuse slips for absent students. He teaches sophomore World History and Economic Geography. He is also the advisor of the N. H. S.

Mr. Royer enjoys reading or watching T. V. during the cold months and during the summer he is a boat enthusiast.

To Future

Students of American History discover the worth of history in our country to give us a basis for the future. They learn of America from its discovery, to the modern times, and of the men and women who helped to make it great.

Economic Geography deals with major industries, basic resources, and the leading nations of the world. Students can see each country from the economic viewpoint.

The study of Democracy is very important in our world today. Its biggest purpose is to improve citizenship and provide understanding of our American government.

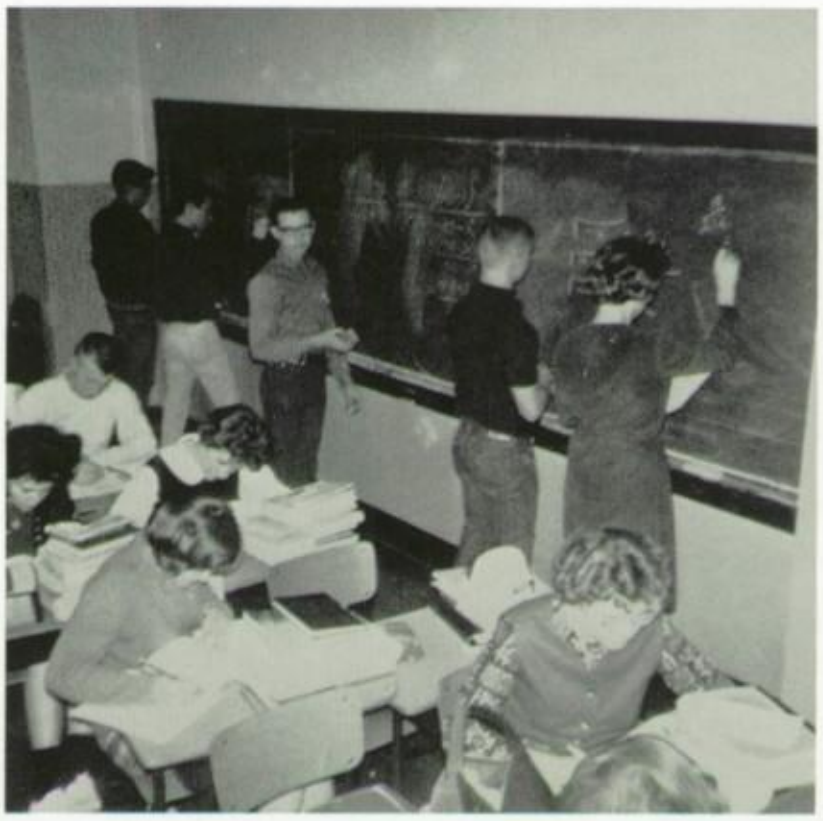
Math — Facts,

MR. GEORGE EASTMAN, A. B.

The Mathematics Department is under the expert guidance of Mr. Eastman. This is his fourth year at Mississinawa - teaching Algebra I, Algebra II, Plane Geometry, Solid Geometry, and Trigonometry.

He teaches his students basic ideas and shows how to put them to work. He utilizes these ideas himself in his carpentry and tinkering. Mr. Eastman also enjoys listening to his hi-fi during his leisure time.



The mathematics field is one of the basic areas of study in high school. It prepares those who are going to college, and those who will work in construction and industry. It provides principles of learning that may be applied to many areas of life.

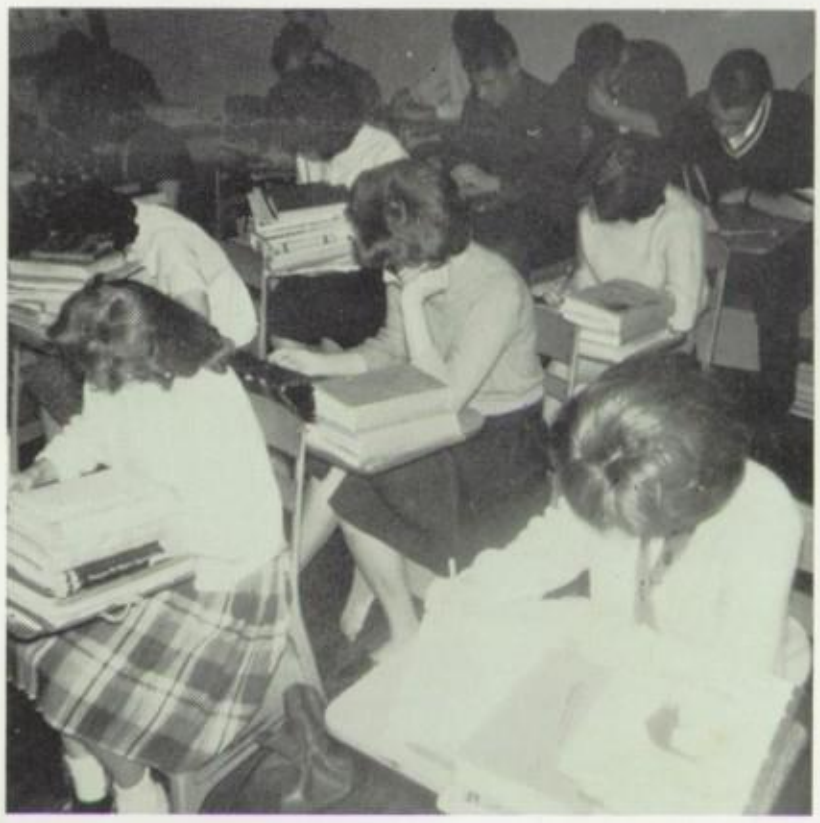
Skills, Thoughts

Plane Geometry helps students understand the role of definitions, assumptions, and logical sequence in math. It gives the pupils opportunity to discover proofs for themselves and to practice reasoning in situations similar to everyday living.



Trigonometry is the study of triangle measurement. It plays a major part in construction and architecture. The interests of the students are motivated to the need of higher math in various areas of study.

General Math is a continuation of math previously learned. It takes the pupils further into the fundamentals of this subject.

MRS. JESSE McCULLOUGH, A. B.

Mrs. McCullough, teacher of Junior and Senior English, is one of our most devoted teachers.

Literature comes to life in her classes through the use of colored pictures of characters and maps of locales being studied.

She is a graduate of Ohio Wesleyan and has done graduate work at Ball State.

MR. WALLACE FIELDS, A. B., M. A.

Honey bees, stock market, and coin collecting are a few interests of Mr. Wallace Fields, instructor of freshman English. A graduate of Ball State Teachers College, Mr. Fields is one of our most versatile teachers. He also serves as librarian and teaches a class in American Government.

These seniors are preparing a panel discussion of an author in English literature.

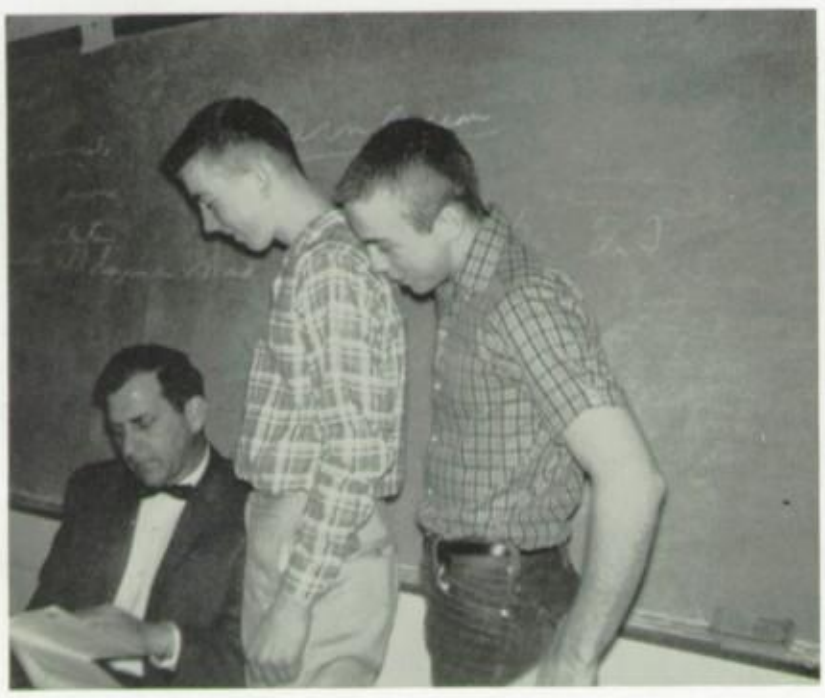
Vocational Goal:

BRADLEY G. PATRICK, B. S., M. S.

Under the leadership of Mr. Patrick, the boys are taught the fundamentals of farming and the workings of machinery. But the accomplishments of his department show that he is able to do far more than this. He has won placings in many contests such as parliamentary procedure, public speaking, and judging livestock.

His is the only department in this region to have a Regional Star Farmer in the Eastern Region of the U. S. which covers 13 states.



Vocational Agriculture offers more than discussions of the fundamentals of farming and the workings of machinery. It encourages boys to be future leaders in business as well as in civic improvement. Included in the year's activities were field trips, judging contests, and parliamentary procedure contests.

MRS. LUCILLE JUETT, B. S., M. S.

Vocational Home Economics teacher, Mrs. Lucille Juett, enjoys traveling as a hobby. Her avid interest in antiques takes her to many auctions during the summer. She is an undergraduate of Berea College and has a Master's Degree from the University of Kentucky.

Home Economics teaching units are varied. From cooking and sewing to play school, future homemakers are led through the many activities and skills needed for efficiency in the home.

MR. HUGH C. HALL, B. S.

Mr. Hugh C. Hall has just completed his first year here as Industrial Arts instructor. He attended Southern State University in Durant, Oklahoma and has a B. S. in education. Mr. Hall, a very qualified teacher, has had 15 years of trade experience in the construction industry. Bowling, fishing, and making furniture are his favorite hobbies.

The Industrial Arts course is divided into two classes. The Shop I class learns the basic fundamentals of woodworking and mechanical drawing. The more advanced Shop II class spends the first semester making chairs and other pieces of furniture. In the second semester of drawing, the boys apply their knowledge of architecture. Engineering and construction work will utilize the learnings from the Industrial Arts Department.

Mr. Whitaker, a University of Kentucky graduate, teaches boys' Physical Education and Health. He has been here in the Jr. and Sr. High for seven years. As coach of both the basketball and baseball teams, Mr. Whitaker has helped many boys. One might find him golfing in the summer and bowling in the winter.

Boys' Physical Education class provides enjoyment as well as instruction. They receive training in many sports and in tumbling. Here Mr. Whitaker is demonstrating how to do the chest stand.

Knowledge of the needs and functions of the human body is as important as physical exercise. The boys' health class helps them realize the importance of sound bodies and minds.

Twirling, reading, and cooking occupy the spare time of Mrs. Eleanor Beisner, director of high school and jr. high band and chorus. She attended Georgetown College and began teaching at Mississinawa this year. Mrs. Beisner has added a bright touch to our music department and highlighted the activities of our band and chorus.

Nodding heads and tapping fingers are seen throughout the building as students keep time to the lively music of the marching band outside.

Our band received fifth place out of 15 participating bands at the Bradford Pumpkin Show. We participated in the Union City Halloween parade and the New Madison Festival.

The chorus gave performances during the Christmas season and at the Cecilian Club.

A pep band and pep club helped to spark our cheering block at the basketball games.

CROSS COUNTRY

Every evening after school the cross-country boys pace a two-mile course of creeks, gullies, underbrush, and rocky hills. Each works out with a stopwatch to seek his potential and to discover the best way to run the course. This sport helps maintain excellent stamina and muscle tone. Mr. Peters, coach of cross-country and track, says, "Just ask the boys!"

TRACK

The gun sounds and you're off! Members of the track team participate in dashes, long-distance runs, high jumping, pole vaulting, and hurdle runs.

BASEBALL

Coach Jack Whitaker demonstrates to the baseball team the correct stance and bat position that every good ballplayer uses. They ended the year with a record of 1-win, 7-losses, and 2-ties.

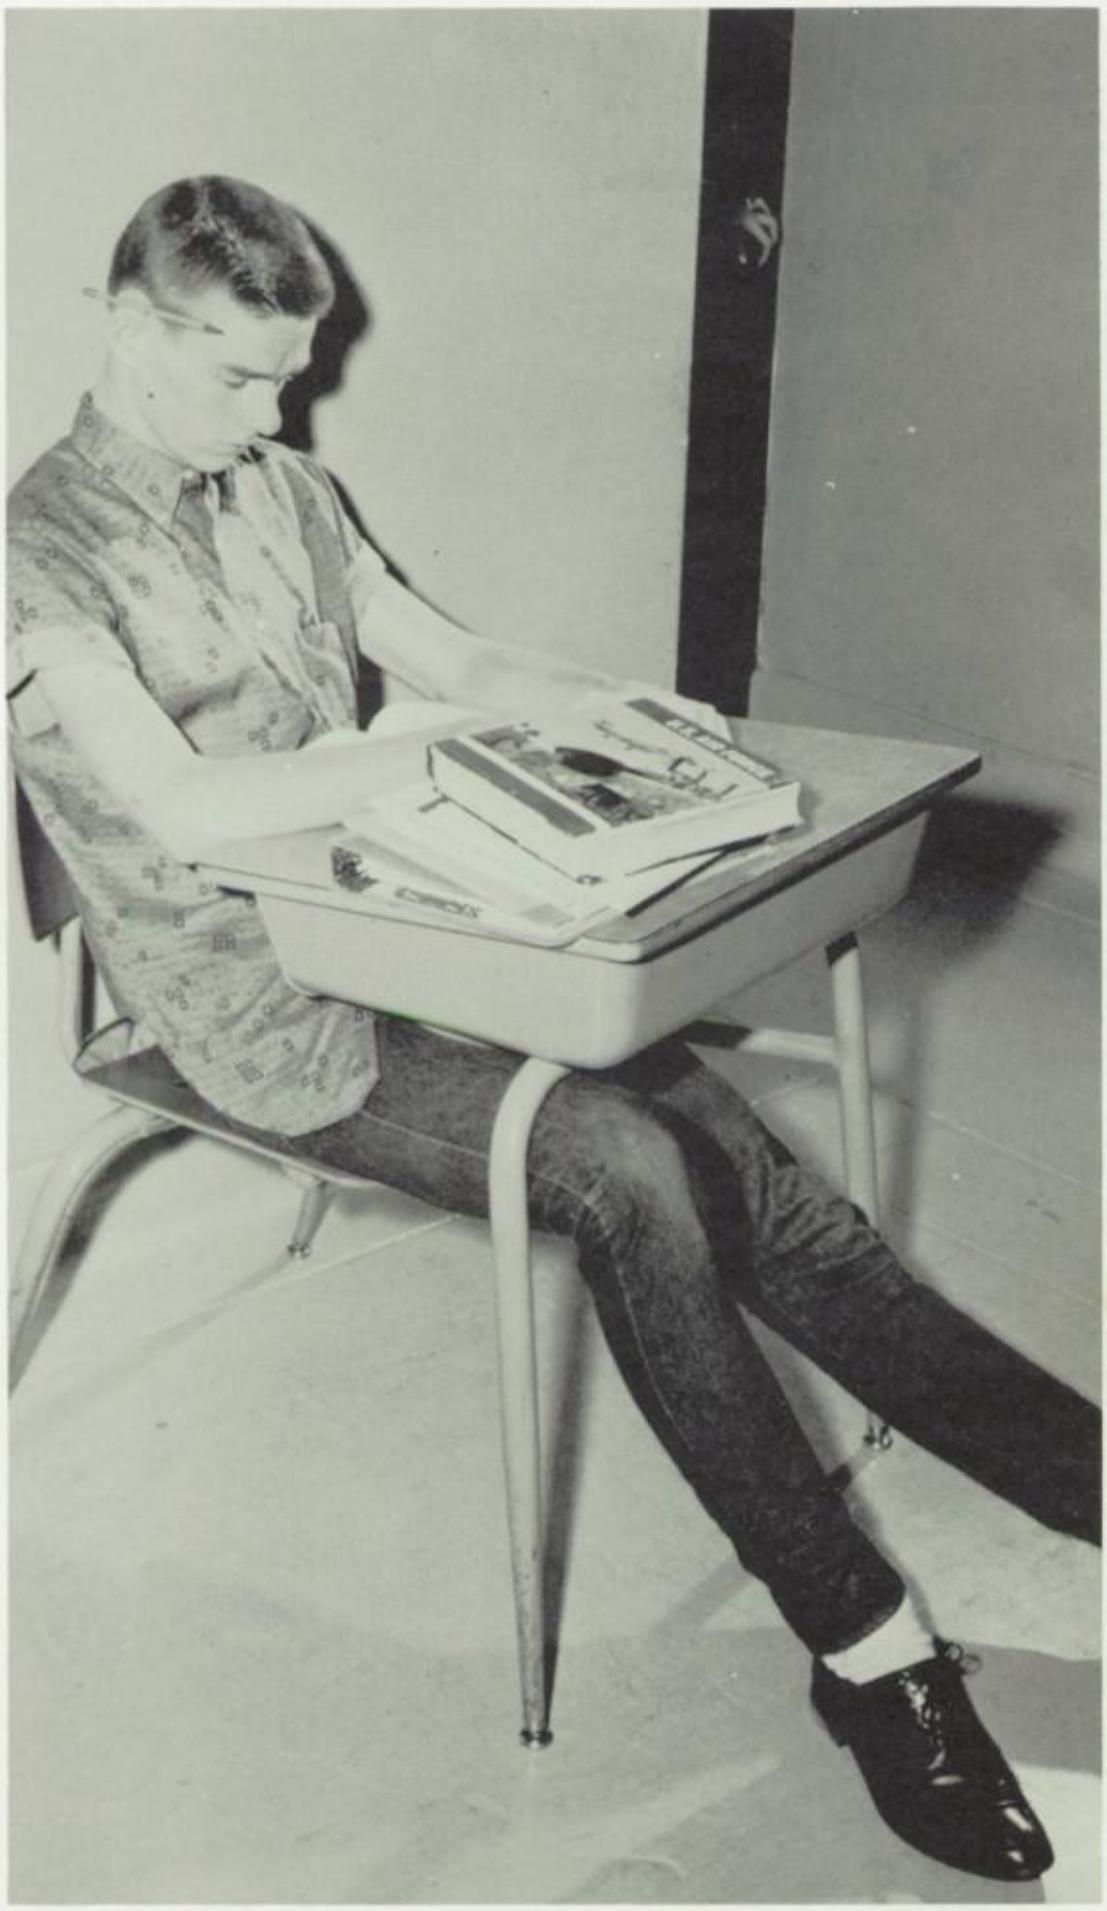
Student Life



Service is symbolized by the student monitor. During classes, he is responsible for the actions of students in the halls. He is alert and faithful to his duties.

During vacations and out-of-school hours, activities vied with part-time jobs to provide outlets for our energies and abilities. Among our many activities were the numerous clubs, dances, sports events, and, of course, our beloved "homework."

F.T.A.

The purpose of the Future Teachers of America is to explore the teaching field as a future career. Through student teaching and several other activities, the members learn a little about the life of a professional teacher.

The officers this year were: Pres., Roberta Longfellow; V.-Pres., Bill Haynes; Sec., Sherry Lyons; Treas., Toni Davis; Hist., Barbara Brooks; Parl., Steve Brewer; and Reptr., Sue Gilbert. Mr. Lease, sixth grade teacher, was the advisor.

Special programs were given at each meeting including a talk from a former Mississinawa student, and a group talk from the officers of the Greenville FTA.

In March, they sponsored a St. Patrick's Day Dance for the entire school. A spring banquet was given for the Union City Community Chapter.

One of the biggest events this year was FTA Day at Miami University; all 36 members and Mr. Lease spent a memorable day in the college atmosphere.

F.N.A.

Feeding and comforting patients, arranging decorations, and distributing newspapers are only a part of the work assigned to the Future Nurses in our local hospital.

Psychology and techniques of nursing service are discussed at their many meetings.

Their officers help guide and direct them in their many duties and activities they should follow.

Tapping Service

An air of suspense and surprise filled the silence as students entered the candle-lighted gym for the annual National Honor Society Tapping Service. After a very impressive program, the current members moved into the audience, one by one, to tap the students who had been selected. As they approached the stage, the parents of the incoming members stood to honor the induction of their son or daughter.

After the service, the student body came to the floor to congratulate the new members.

Future Farmers

"Learning To Do, Doing To Learn, Earning To Live, Living To Serve" is the motto of the Future Farmers of America. The Mississinawa Valley Chapter, whose sponsor is Mr. Patrick, boasts of 31 members this year. The members take part in farm judging contests, public speaking contests and conventions.

The officers are president, Louis Hylton; vice-president, Mike Price; secretary, Steve Amspaugh; treasurer, Eldon Hartzell; reporter, Dennis Davison; sentinel, Gene Wine; and chaplain, John Barth.

Select Sweetheart

The highlight of F.F.A. activities is the annual Sweetheart Dance. Miss Karen Wenger was crowned as 1964 F.F.A. Sweetheart by president Louis Hylton. Mike Price, crowned by last year's Sweetheart, Susie Denniston, reigned as King.

This dance, one of the year's loveliest affairs, featured the Rick-Z-Combo.

Junior High

The Junior High school points the way for students to high school. It is the bridge between childhood and young adulthood. Junior High classes prepare pupils for more difficult classes in high school.

The band and chorus give the students an opportunity to discover and begin developing their talents. Basketball and other sports further training in teamwork; and, the student council can help to develop future leaders in the years to come.

Preparing for Service —

Though we are freshmen, new and inexperienced, we realize our duty is to serve. For this purpose we have chosen as president, Rusty Harshman; vice-president, Cheryl Mendenhall; secretary, Pam Wade; treasurer, Don Crowell; and reporter, Ellen Sanders. Also, Philip Brewer and Maureen Schricker are the freshmen student council members.

We will have many memories of this first year - - the hidden fear we shared the first few days, the rousing enthusiasm of pep sessions, and the knowledge that we were the largest freshman class ever to enter Mississinawa.

The increase in our enrollment has really caused confusion - - not only in classes and hallways but also in the lunch line. The divided lunch period, a first for us, is the result. Now instead of waiting in line for half an hour, part of us stay in class and eat a little later than others. This system seems to help ease our "growing pains."

Honesty, loyalty, and morality are essentials of good character symbolized by the sophomore class. As our officers, we have elected Eddie Bateman, president; Alicia Wright, vice-president; Julie Saintignon, secretary; Bill Cottington, treasurer; and Linda Spencer, reporter. Student council members are Evelyn Kester and James Pyers.

One of our happiest moments was when we received our class jackets. The white leather sleeves created a stir among the students. It seems they were different!

Pushing and scrambling were but a small part of our skating party. As our first big project, it was a tremendous success. In the midst of a colorful throng of people, some had shoes too small, some too large. This large crowd made the skating party even more fun, but brought about a few more spills and falls.

Working for Scholarship —

This year, more than before, we realize the importance and satisfaction of study and high scholarship. The juniors we have chosen as officers are John Hurst, president; Danny Eastridge, vice-president; Janet Hoggatt, secretary; Susan Goughnour, treasurer; and Sharon Coppess, reporter. Toni Davis, Wanda Kochersperger, and Vicky Cook are student council members.

Our class rings have become a very special and important part of us. They remind us, though, that we have only one year left.

With the class trip next year in mind, each one of us worked hard doing our part in the concession stands at home ballgames.

As a junior class tradition, this work gave us many varied and happy experiences.

Seniors

Service, Character, Scholarship, and Leadership - - these are the finest qualities that can be instilled in a student. They are part of the past, the present, and the future.

Part of our future will also be memories of Mississinawa Valley - - especially during our senior year. When we look back at these pictures of our classmates, they will bring to mind many wonderful times - - the prom, the class trip, and graduation.

FRAZIER SUPPLY

Laughing, anxious, and weary faces were all to be seen on Senior Day at the A & W Root Beer Stand. Inexperienced carhops accidentally spilled their trays on unsuspecting customers and the kitchen-crew's slow action sometimes caused impatience, but all in all our project was very successful.

Our main attractions were clowns, the band of Randy and the Wild Ones, and lovely car hostesses. Our almost constant companion was bewilderment; and our rewards were fun and the gain we made for our trip.

As an aid to achieving scholarship, we often use the library to look up added information to help us in our daily work.

Washington — Here We Come!

On the way to Piqua, where we met our train, everyone was excited. Coming home, this was a different story; everyone was asleep.

Mr. Juett, one of our chaperons, gains great understanding from the articles in Mad magazine.

Everything from comic books to sports and outdoor magazines were read on the train. This pastime took the place of squirt guns or water balloons.

The Capitol Building, White House, and the Lincoln Memorial left a different impression on each person. We nearly lost most of the senior class from exhaustion in the Washington Monument.

The Annual Staff of 1964 is proud of its first book to be departmentalized.

After many hours of hard work, we can give a big sigh of relief. We hope that this book will bring to each of you many happy memories of the 1963-64 school year.

We say "thanks" to everyone who helped make this yearbook a success.
